CURRENT POSITION

2014 – Present Deputy Director for Implementation Science
Division of Cancer Control and Population Sciences
National Cancer Institute

This position involves coordination of implementation science efforts across the cancer control continuum. One major component of this work is identifying the contributions of Implementation Science to the research agenda across the Division. A second component is overseeing the development, maintenance and evolution of multiple platforms (e.g. Cancer Control P.L.A.N.E.T., Research to Reality, Advanced Topic Webinars, Research-Tested Interventions and Programs, etc.) that bridge research, practice and policy. A third component is the development of initiatives to advance dissemination and implementation research across the Institute, Agency, Department, and broad research community. This involves serving as a principal spokesperson for the growth of the knowledge base underlying the dissemination and implementation of evidence-based clinical and community practice. I lead a trans-NIH working group on dissemination and implementation research, including representation from 17 Institutes, Centers and Officers. This working group continues to plan agency workshops, funding announcements and training activities for D&I research. In addition, I serve on multiple committees within the Institute, NIH, and broader HHS, and as a primary contact within NIH on issues related to Implementation Science.

EDUCATION

RESEARCH/WORK EXPERIENCE

| 2008- 2014 | Branch Chief |
| | Services Research and Clinical Epidemiology Branch, Division of Services and Intervention Research, National Institute of Mental Health |

This post involves managing the portfolio of services research and clinical epidemiology within the Institute, including the supervision of research program officers, the coordination of priorities for services research within the Institute and across NIH, presentations on priorities to researchers across the country, and development of initiatives to incentivize the field to produce impactful research. I oversee the national conference on mental health services research every other year, a range of research initiatives, and a portfolio of approximately $60 million in services research grants and contracts.

| 2006 – 2014 | Associate Director |
| | Dissemination and Implementation Research, National Institute of Mental Health |

This post involved coordinating dissemination and implementation efforts in mental health across Federal agencies. As part of this work, a major responsibility was to serve as a principal spokesman for the implementation of evidence-based practice. I led a trans-NIH working group on dissemination and implementation research, including representing from 17 Institutes, Centers and Officers. This working group planned agency workshops, funding announcements and training activities for D&I research. In addition, I served on multiple committees within the Institute, NIH, and broader HHS, and as a primary contact for NIMH on issues related to science and service. Specifically, I was the leader of a Data Infrastructure Group for the NIH Health Economics Common Fund Program and a member of the Executive Committee for the NIH Health Care Systems Collaboratory Common Fund Program. Principally, I worked for consistency within dissemination and implementation research across the NIH, as well as AHRQ, the VA, CDC, and services agencies (e.g. HRSA, SSA, ACF, SAMHSA).

| 2001 - 2014 | Program Officer |
| | Dissemination and Implementation Research Program, Services Research and Clinical Epidemiology Branch, Division of Services and Intervention Research, National Institute of Mental Health |

This post involved the development and maintenance of a research program to build a knowledge base around efforts to bring scientific findings and effective clinical practices in mental health to real-world practice settings. As a result of my work there, I developed a major research portfolio in dissemination and implementation research and wrote multiple program announcements and requests for applications to stimulate researchers to study dissemination and implementation processes. I ran eleven workshops, from technical assistance meetings for young investigators to "state of the science meetings" on dissemination and implementation research, public messaging for suicide prevention, and internet-based interventions.

2000   Consultant
                              Mental Health Policy
                              World Bank, Health, Nutrition, and Population Group

This position involved crafting a World Bank policy paper on investment priorities for mental health programs in developing countries.

1998-1999   Research Associate
                              University of Oxford
                              Welsh National Demonstration Project Evaluation

This position involved developing research design, interviewing senior clinicians, front-line clinicians and managers working on six pilot projects in Wales, and assisting in dissemination of project results. The projects involved local attempts to implement changes to clinical practice in primary care, for topics including stroke rehabilitation, emergency medical services, and schizophrenia. I directed the research for two of the six sites, collaborated with my colleagues on data analysis and the final report submitted to the Clinical Effectiveness Group in the Welsh Office.

1998-2000   Staff Researcher
                              University of Oxford
                              VirginAtlantic FastTrack 100 Research Project

This position involved interviewing CEOs of the fastest growing companies in the UK and preparing case studies detailing competitive advantages/success factors. The FastTrack 100 lead tables, documenting the companies that I researched, is published annually in the London Times.

1997-1998   Research Associate
                              University of Oxford
                              PACE (Promoting Action on Clinical Effectiveness) Programme
                              Evaluation (Nationally funded by NHS Executive)

This position involved assisting in developing research design, interviewing senior clinicians and managers at 16 sites in the NHS, and contributing to the dissemination of project results. The projects were nationally funded efforts to implement change to clinical practice in a variety of clinical topics. I supervised the research for two of the sites, and collaborated with three other colleagues on data analysis and the preparation of a final report submitted to the NHS Executive.

1996-1997 Research Assistant
Coalition of Essential Schools at Brown University
(School Reform Institute)

This position involved Coding and transcription of interviews of high school teachers to evaluate teacher support groups. I also analyzed and developed pilot surveys for evaluation of teacher practice/pedagogy.

1994-1997 Research Assistant (Summer)
Northwestern University
Comer Evaluation Project

This position involved analysis of data from student, staff surveys on school climate and attitudes as part of a large multi-site study of a school reform initiative. Under the supervision of the Principal Investigator (T.D. Cook), I ran regressions, correlations on county school data, and created charts and graphs for use in annual MacArthur Foundation meetings on school reform.

1995 (July-August) Research Assistant
Prometheus, Inc.
(Mathematics Think-Tank)
 Newport, RI.

This position involved the development of a financial asset allocation application of an algorithm used in military strategic planning.

ACADEMIC POSITIONS

1999-2000 College Lecturer, Management
Trinity College
University of Oxford

--Directed the course of Economics and Management students.
--Organized and taught tutorials in management to Trinity College students.
--Supervised students in their final year preparation for exams.

1998-2001 Teacher
Introduction to Management and Organisational Behaviour
Said Business School
University of Oxford

--Taught second and third-year undergraduates the Organisational Behaviour specialist course.
--Taught third-year undergraduates the Introduction to Management course.

1999 Supervisor
Kingfisher Executive Education Program

Templeton College
University of Oxford

--Supervised executive education student in construction of his thesis for the Diploma in Management at Templeton College.

1994-1995   Resident Counselor
                   Brown University

--Counseled First-year university students with problems relating to academics, living situations, issues of diversity, and family.
--Led outreaches discussing societal concerns of sexism, racism, sexual assault, and classism.
--Organized social activities for counselees.
--Served as computer support staff for counselees.

1994   Teacher (Summer School)
                   Nichols/Northwestern Creative Alliance
                   Northwestern University

--Taught alternative methods of traditional skill acquisition—arithmetic, reading, writing—to 11 to 13 year-old students using computers and other technologies.

1991-1993   Substitute High School Geometry Teacher
                   Evanston Township High School

--Taught Honors and Regular Geometry to high school students.

ACADEMIC INTERESTS

- Dissemination and Implementation Research
- Sustainability and Evolvability of Evidence-Based Interventions
- Evidence-Based Medicine
- Organizational Change in Health Care
- The Use of Health Information Technology to Improve Access, Quality, and Efficiency of Health Care
- Understanding the Use of Media to increase knowledge of illness, decrease stigma, and increase help-seeking behavior.
- Evidence-Based Policy Decision-Making and its Implementation
